Boston Bruins Outlast Leafs To Win 3 to 1 in Overtime And Take Over, Leadership

Bruins Secure Two Goals by Hiller and Wiseman in Overtime

LEAFS SCORE FIRST BY ALAN WICKERSON (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The feeling will prevail generally at least until the next meeting of the two, that the Boston Bruins powerhouse generated a higher morale than that of Toronto's Leafs, which was the case last night when the Bruins beat the Leafs in the National Hockey League play-off.

Before an overflow house crowd of 15,000 that might have prevented the Bruins' scoring power displayed in a terrific drive after dark and gave them a 3-1 overtime victory over their arch-enemy from Toronto. It appeared to be a plain case of power for the Leafs were leading 1-0 in the 11-minute mark of the third period. The victory gave Bruins a total of 11 points and broke a first-place tie with Leafs which had threatened to end in indecisive, it also affirmed the services of their coaches and proved that bouncing Boston name carries on hard work.

Coach Lester a pulled guard, making the history is not only of action—played through the game, and thereafter.

Hauer played on three times, his substituted by scoring in overtime and one minor penalty.

Leafs' head coach.

The short-handed Leafs, playing without their latest captain, Captain Irvy, scored after 11 minutes of the opening period. The Bruins were leading 1-0 in the 11-minute mark of the third period. DELIGHT DIXON SAYS...

BUBBLE bathing spells luxury-pins to weary bodies at the end of a busy day. And to have the bubbles in the fragrance you want when you want it, there is a sampler package containing three bottles of perfumed bubble-making oil. Gardenia, bouquet and pine are the three scents which fit into any repertoire of moods. Another package contains envelopes of bubble-making powder and these, like the sampler case, come in apple blossom as well as any of the three fragrances.

Stretch your body to its full height and practice walking around your room. Get in the habit of holding yourself "tall" if you want to give the impression of height and look regal and lithe. Make an effort to walk this way for a week or two and you will soon be it unconsciously. It's a good habit which will improve your appearance and make your clothes look smarter.

A turn of a miniature ferris wheel brings your favorite perfume to the top. The revolving wheel of this unique perfume holder and carrier contains five bottles of excellent fragrance. The wheel is mounted on graceful supports of heavy gold-stamped plastic set in a velvet-lined base. This wheel of five fragrances is a decorative table or perfume tray.

Life will seem easier and you will believe that many of the best things in life are free after a brisk walk in the cool winds followed by a warm bath and a firm rubdown with a good body lotion. When you are out of sorts, put on comfortable clothing, tilt your chin upward and, taking a deep breath, set out for a two-mile hike. Experts say it takes at least two miles of brisk walking to get the circulation up and to fill the lungs with enough fresh, clean air to make the eyes sparkle like diamonds and to make everything seem right in the world.

Don't let your constant primping at the dinner table or in the drawing room bore others. Take care that your make-up is well applied and that your hairdo is right before leaving the house. Of course, if you must touch up your make-up or put stray hairs in place, take a trip to the privacy of a dressing room. Habitual dabbling with make-up and fussing with hair gives away the secret that you

Pink fingers that pick up black or other coloring from your suede bag can be prevented. Here is how: Use a rubber sponge and brush and brush the bag until all excess color is brushed away. The sponge will act as an eraser in rubbing off the coloring which would otherwise seep off on the fingers.

How do you look from the back? Do you give the back of your whole get-up the same thoughtful care you do your make-up, face-framing hairline and your reflection as you face your mirror? Use a hand mirror and check up on nape-of-neck hairs, collar, jacket or blouse shoulders, bermline and stocking seams. Be sure—there's nothing so want to present an all-round picture of perfection.

Smoothness, a soft expression and good shape are essential to the beauty of the mouth

BAZAAR
by
DELIGH
DIXON

TET your lips speak of beauty. Let them tell the mood you are in, give a hint to your temperament, but unless you are really young, don't let them tell your age. Lips are considered by many to be the most important facial feature, and their smoothness, good shape and soft expression are essential to their prettiness.

Lips require exercise just as any other feature or member of the body. They must be kept or made graceful so that their movements are easy and gentle. Pretty lips never look rough, never show caked rouge and never, never fall into hard lines or utter harsh, unclad-y-

One of the first things to do toward developing nice lips is to make and keep their muscles mobile and flexible. Long ago, the famous actress, Gertrude Lawrence, told Mother, with an eye to Daughter's future success and good looks, put young Fenelope to moulding her lips by saying "fish" and "fish" 100 times a day, five hundred times each day. While our modern standards of perfect lips differ from that of the rosy red era, exercises still may be an important part of the program for the lips but for correcting bad speech.

"Freness and prisms" remains a splendid exercise which hasn't lost any of its beneficial effects through the years. It is the exercise of the lips and the tongue to exercise the lips and keep them mobile so that they fall into soft lines naturally. Whistling is also so fine an exercise for the lips and the list so that

But before going through any of these steps, you should first make sure you are comfortable with the idea of being in the privacy of your room.

Then, you can begin to work on the steps. The first step is to make a list of all the things you want to do. This list should be as specific as possible. For example, instead of saying "I want to be a writer," you should say "I want to write a novel." This will help you to focus your efforts and avoid getting distracted by other things.

Next, you should set a goal for yourself. This goal should be something that is achievable and that you can measure. For example, you might set a goal to write 100,000 words in the next six months. This will give you a clear target to work towards and will help you to stay motivated.

Now apply all this knowledge. Remember, the key is to be consistent. You should work on your goal every day, even if it's just for a few minutes. This will help you to build a habit and will make it easier to stick to your goal in the long run.

your fingers, use a light patting massage from the corners of your mouth outward to your cheek bones. Repeat each massage movement from five to 10 times twice each day.

Lips that appear rough and chapped and won't hold rouge require special care if they are to be made soft and plump. Rouge is to go on smoothly and remain so without caking. Frequent scrubbing with a well-lathered complexion brush will help nature remove dead, dry skin and at the same time help remove rouge which has become imbedded in the pores around the lips. These small red specks are called "lip freckles," because, although they are basically the same as blackheads, their covering of rouge makes them red.

If little redheads are numerous, or if they don't yield to gentle and frequent

Smooth lips are necessary to a smooth application of rouge. The use of a colorless pomade before putting on rouge will serve to fill the crevices and help to make up and at the same time aid in correcting and preventing roughness. There are a number of lip pomades available, most of which have special soothing and healing ingredients which also help to prevent the lips from becoming dry and in counteracting dryness due to exposure. If your lips are unduly dry, if they are rough and rouge doesn't go on smoothly or stay on long, by all means use a pomade before putting on your rouge.

The color of lipstick you use is just as important as the way you use it.

Choose a color that blends with the natural tones of your skin. Harsh shades of orange (thank goodness, not the color of the hair) and the vibrant violet shades (which are very vivid this season) are definitely out of the beauty picture. Choose a shimmable lipgloss as a true red, while others have either delicate mauve or a soft brown under tone.

low richness of color and a soft, warm

The method of application, although very important, must be determined by the individual. Use a brush, your wet finger, or a finger or finger for making the application smooth and for giving your lips pleasing contours.

Don't exaggerate the lines of your lips and expect them to appear naturally perfect. To be sure you may choose a little in giving your lips a more defined shape or in giving them width, your mouth appears too small for your face and features, but this subterfuge must be subtle or the illusion you are trying to create will be completely spoiled. The outline of your lips must be clear and the entire surface of the lips must be one shade. If you application of rouge goes awry, by means remove all of it and begin over again rather than attempt to fix it in, even up and patch over a wrong

Youthful lips are well defined as their tips point slightly upward. Give your lips the same thoughtful care you do your complexion, hair, eyes, hands and figure. Keep your lips soft and smooth and their movements gentle and lady-like. In these ways your lips will speak of beauty.

Whether the rouge is applied with a stick, finger or brush, as above, application must be smooth and even and the lines of the lips followed exactly or slightly exaggerated at mouth corners.

PROBLEM

Do you approve of the use of cologne in place of setting waves or water when putting waves and curls in the hair? I like to use cologne because it dries quickly but I wonder if it might not harm the hair. Thanks so much. BLANCHE.

Because of the alcoholic content of cologne it isn't advisable to use it regularly when setting the hair. You might like the blend of four parts waving lotion to one part cologne. This makes a nice lotion and dries quickly.

I have been biting my nails for a number of years and would give anything to break myself of this childish habit. Can you suggest something that might help me?
ELLEN M. B.

How about developing enough will power and pride in your nails to stop, you call it, the childish habit of biting your nails? Or, how about wearing artificial nails until you have the habit well in hand? I'm sure you would not enjoy biting artificial nails!

My hair has been abused. It is over-bleached and the ends are brass-brassy and terribly split. What do you advise me to do? HELEN H. P.

Why don't you have the split ends cut off and begin a rigorous corrective campaign to prevent the new ends from becoming split? Use a bluing or drab rinse after each shampoo to tone down the over-bunched hairs. This is by far the most sensible plan and your hair will look ever so much better as it grows out.

It is possible to reduce fifteen pounds without losing too much in my face or throat! Every time I get my figure down to the right weight and size, my face gets thin and I look younger. And you think it is possible for me to lose weight without these results, please let me know how.

MRS. LENA G.

There is no reason why you cannot lose the desired number of pounds without losing your good looks. Sorry, haven't space in these columns to give you my reducing program, but would be glad to state it in detail in a separate article. I will forward you a leaflet of suggestions for losing weight sensibly. This is a splendid program and extremely easy to follow.

I'm twenty-three years old and have an excessively oily skin and many black heads and occasional blemishes. I realize that correct eating is an important factor and try so hard to watch my diet. Brooklyn Expected to Get All-Star Game This Year

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—The baseball brethren are back at their winter business of sitting in hotel lobbies and hoping that some important trade deal will come out of the period before this week.

There was a good reason why the winter league meeting in Jacksonville, Fla. All of the managers and managers again are together here for the winter league meetings which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The National and American Leagues will meet separately to improve and Wootenbury and then together on Thursday night at 8 p.m. to discuss the technical matters not decided by the public, but two of their actions will be the rejection of a plan for next year's all-star game and a decision on the St. Louis Braves' plan to play more than seven night games at home.

Brooklyn is expected to be the all-star game, alone at the National League and the south team.

The restriction on seven night games is not expected to be lifted on the basis of a preliminary survey of the club owners.

British Balk Jap Drives in Malaya. Tho Air Base Kota Bharu Believed Lost

35,000 Ton Prince of Wales And 32,000 Ton Repulse Lost in Action off Malaya

Most Disastrous Single Blow Suffered By Royal Navy in Whole War—Japanese Claim Ships Sunk by Aerial Attack—Fate of Crews Numbering 3,000 Officers, Men Unknown

NO DETAILS AVAILABLE

LONDON, Dec. 10 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill shocked the House of Commons with the solemn announcement today that the Battleship Prince of Wales and the Battle Cruiser Repulse had been sunk in the Pacific in Britain's biggest single naval loss of the war.

As soon as the House convened Monday and made the following statement:

"I have bad news for the House which I thought I should impart to them at the earliest possible moment."

"A report has been received from Singapore that H.M.S. Prince of Wales and H.M.S. Repulse have been sunk while carrying out operations against the Japanese attack upon Malaya."

The details are as yet available except those contained in the Japanese official communiqué which claims both ships were sunk by air attack.

"I shall take no occasion at an early date to make a short statement on the general war situation which, from many points of view, both favourably and adversely undergone important changes in the last few days."

The $5,000-ton Prince of Wales was a powerful, new cruiser, the $2,000-ton Repulse was an older vessel.

Their loss was announced by the Admiralty without word of how they were sunk or the location of the ships.

A Japanese communiqué said they were destroyed in air attacks.

"This, it confirmed, would be the first known sinking of any warship of the size either of the Prince of Wales or the Repulse by aerial bombardment."

The Prince of Wales, only recently dispatched to the Pacific, was the flagship of the fleet Britain had massed and organized to defeat the Empire in the Far East.

The warships went down "while carrying out operations against the Japanese attack on Malaya," the Admiralty said.

It added that "no details were yet available except those contained in the Japanese official communiqué which claims that both ships were sunk by air attack."

The Prince of Wales was flying the flag of Admiral Sir Tom Phillips, commander of the British fleet in eastern waters.

Canada's coastal batteries, covering the country's Pacific approaches, are connected by passageways hewn from the solid rock. In preparation for the present danger, work has been going ahead for several years on this chain of fortifications.

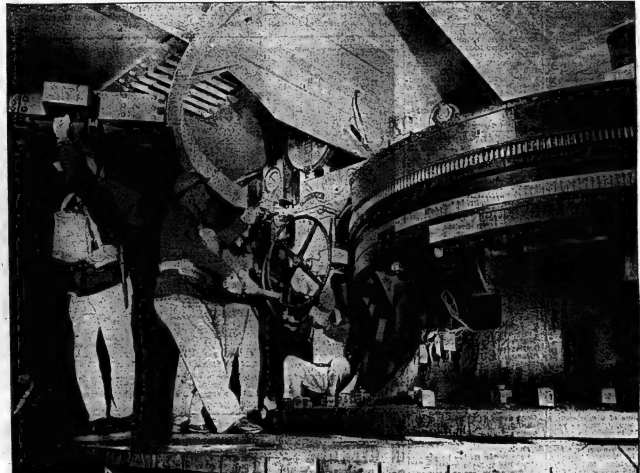

Symbolic of Canada's readiness in this photo, showing an artilleryman in the subterranean control chamber with his finger on the trigger awaiting the firing order. Far above him big guns command the country's Pacific approaches.

Ensuring independent operation of batteries regardless of outside interruptions of electrical supply are such individual power plants as the one shown above.

Some idea of the size and power of the big guns which stand ready to hurl tons of destruction far out into the Pacific at the first sign of the enemy may be gained from this photo, showing a control chamber below the surface. These armstrongs, mounted on instructions from observation posts, where gunnery officers work with precise instruments to determine range of target.

Out beyond the threatening muzzle of this coastal defense gun lurks a new enemy for Canada and the United States. Standing ready to play their part in the defence of the North American continent, these soldiers are well-trained and equipped. Their guns will challenge any enemy craft which may venture within their range. When these weapons roar, their thunder cracks windows and may be heard for 55 miles. Years of preparation lie behind Canada's intricate string of Western fortifications and when war finally exploded in the Pacific, the defense machine was immediately ready to function with smooth efficiency.

As a hydraulic arm pushes a shell up, gunners stand ready to ram it into the breech. Constant practice has taught these men speed and accuracy at their job.

String Of Modern Forts Guard Ocean Doorways

CANADA is at war with the Empire of Japan and the United States have gone out on the Pacific Coast. Sentries stand guard through the night, their eyes scanning the sea and air. The Dominion's fighting forces stand poised for action, on the ocean, in the air, on the land.

Giant patrol planes range far out to sea. Destroyers, corvettes and auxiliary cruisers of the Royal Canadian Navy keep dropped their decks for battle and the tiny vessels of the Fisheries Reserve carry on a sharp-eyed search of British Columbia's remote bays and fjords.

The defenders of the West Coast have ground against the possibility of trouble in the Pacific, are ready to meet the new challenges.

Most significant of Canada's preparations in the West is its network of powerful coastal batteries. Work has gone ahead on the construction of these fortifications since the outbreak of war in Europe.

Quickly completed while all eyes were turned toward the Europe, these fortifications have covered with their big guns all the important coast approaches to the "rocky" Pacific Coast.

The photographs on this page, taken for Public Information by the Canadian Press, show a few examples of these armed fortifications which have overnight become of vital importance to the safety of Canada.

Volume of Christmas Mail May Set Record

An all-time record for the volume of Christmas mail is expected to be set by the volume of mail received by the post office on Christmas morning.

For this reason it has been deemed necessary by postal authorities to provide the regular morning delivery as well as special delivery, to provide the Christmas mail. The Christmas mail has been known to post office employees since December 1918 when the volume of mail was given to that effect.

JAPANESE LANDING

An army spokesman said that he was landing at Atkinson. The Japanese had made an attack on the southeast coast of the island near Inakanga but had been driven off. Observers interpreted the new Japanese threat as an attempt to force General Douglas Macleod to split his forces and thus weaken resistance on the vital peninsula front.

FOR MANY, the beautiful blessings of Christmas Day will be mingled with sadness and anxiety because of the war, hardships and troubles that are going to face danger and hardship. To those we say—be of good heart and cheer. Our boys would want it that way. They will be happy in the knowledge of our happiness and safety. And the lovely tradition that is Christmas is one of the things we must not lose.

Ottawa, Dec. 29 (CP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill came to Ottawa today and gave a message of confidence that "victories and far-reaching decisions" were imminent as a result of the allied war conference which has opened here in Washington for the past week. Mr. Churchill came in a heavily guarded train, which reached Ottawa this morning.

His first statement was given to the correspondents on the train. Churchill said on board of Mr. Churchill by Commander C. M. Blackburn, a member of the staff.

This expressed regret that Mr. Churchill had not given a train conference which had been anticipated by the correspondents.

The Prime Minister's conference had opened on Saturday at Mr. Churchill had been enabled to take a few days to accept the invitation to the conference.

On the return to Washington he anticipated that important decisions would be so well advanced that practical and far-reaching decisions are being made.

At about the same time that the short wave radio broadcast the President's personal radio to the Philippines, the navy issued a statement.

"The United States navy is advancing an intensive campaign to liberate the Philippines," the navy said.

However, the navy's announcement that it had sent the Pacific fleet to the Philippines could be well welcomed. It was a move that would show the world that the U.S. was not afraid to stand up to the Japanese.

In a series of well-considered comments, Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill talked with the representatives of thirty-two United States Congressmen regarding the broad program for prosecution of the war against the Japanese.

Presented at Annet. The capital was greeted at news that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and American President Franklin D. Roosevelt had been meeting in Moscow since mid-December, keeping in close touch with the Moscow-White House talks since then.

Announcement of the Moscow talks, Mr. Churchill's future course of action in the war was a mystery as far as the public was concerned. It was noted that the British government was not to be kept in the dark about the Soviet war in Europe as they were during campaigns in the Pacific.

British war-time leader was seen from his train at the Union Station in London. He was seen with Prime Minister Churchill and other members of the Canadian war cabinet. As soon as he got off the train, Mr. King introduced the British Prime Minister to cabinet members and members of the diplomatic corps.

The Guns Of Canada—Some Of The Ten Types Now In Production Here Hundreds Of Factories Across Dominion Are Fully Mobilized For War

Before the war Canada manufactured no guns. Today it is one of the most important contributors to the armory of freedom. These Canadian-made twelve-pounder guns will help protect the Empire's merchant shipping.

Quantity production is now under way on the two-pounder anti-air gun. There are 200 parts in each of these weapons and their mass production requires a high degree of skill. The gun, which costs less than $7,000, has an armour-plating shell designed to rip into the interior of a tank or destroy the motor vehicle. More than 2,000 machine guns, destined to the two fronts, are being produced there.

Twenty-five pounder field guns of the most modern design are being produced at the big plant of Steel Industries, Ltd., in Quebec Province. They are being turned out at an average rate of fifty per month. The complete process—from scrap iron to finished gun—is done at the one plant. Each gun costs $28,000.

Mountings for Vickers machine guns are being made in an Ontario plant originally meant to be a shoe factory. Its transformation is an example of how hundreds of factories large and small have been enlisted into the industrial war effort. The guns themselves will be in production early in 1942.

Capable of firing 135 40-mm shells a minute, the Bofors light anti-aircraft gun is a formidable weapon. It has 2,000 individual parts and is made, complete with mounting, in one plant. The Bofors bursts its shell to an altitude of 20,000 feet.

Mountings of two-pounder anti-aircraft pom-pom guns are being made in Canada. The gun itself will be ready for production at the beginning of the year.

Canada builds two-inch and three-inch trench mortars as well as such small arms as Bren and Browning machine guns and Lee-Enfield rifles. These photos were made by Harry Brown, staff photographer of Public Information.
